Long live IPA!

'Every time you react in the same old way, ask if you want to become a prisoner of the past or a pioneer of the future'

WORD OF INTRODUCTION

"The journey of a thousand miles starts with a single step".

Coming close to the end of this year and finding ourselves just a few days before the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Arthur Troop, I had to give the floor to our founder!

Not long before 1950....

"Friendship was at a very low ebb. Every effort had to be made to forget past grievances, so stupidly settled by the gun rather than with words of friendship and concord. A way forward had to be found, or the same mistakes would be repeated, and the world would again find itself in strife.

Friendship and trust had to take their place otherwise there would be virtually no future for Mankind. A Brave New World had to be built and everyone had to take their part.

I began to think of trying to establish again my pen-friendships which had disappeared at the outset of the Second World War. It would be my honest attempt to renew old friendships, but with a definite purpose.

It was vital to avoid politics, religion and all other controversial subjects. I considered that friendship transcended all. It was this very simplicity which was the key to the acceptance and eventual success of The International Police Association.

My first real friendships were established abroad in Holland, Belgium, Denmark and Norway. But then the idea certainly started to "snowball". The start had been made.

We all had similar views about the future of peace and freedom, a fact which had brought us together in the first place. We wanted to do what we could in our small way to bring about a better world.

Whatever our ideological feelings or religious views, and these were naturally varying, we all believed that we could spread our simple message of FRIENDSHIP to other parts of the world".

And Arthur Troop founded the IPA! What a visionary and a great man.

Away from politics, fights and all other controversial subjects, let's make our own footprints on the path set by our founder. Let's put Friendship in the middle of our concerns and ensure that the snowball keeps getting bigger...

Happy Arthur Troop's day to all of you on December 15th, his birthday, and Long live IPA!

AROUND THE WORLD

'NEW' NATIONAL PRESIDENT

IPA Australia

The Australia Section of IPA celebrated our 50th anniversary on board the Celebrity Solstice cruise ship for a 3 night journey in October 2014 where we conducted our AGM during this election year. I thank all Australia Section office holders for their support and trust in selecting me as the National President and am honoured to accept this position. Prior to the cruise we had the pleasure to witness the Water Police and Air Wing put on a display of their skills on the majestic Sydney harbor specifically for our members.

It was wonderful to have an international flavor for the occasion with honorary guests in attendance including International President, Pierre-Martin Moulin, Japan President Koji Nakamura and New Zealand Vice President Ross Pinkham.

I have been an active IPA member since 1990 at both a regional and executive level, holding the position of National Treasurer for the past 12 years. I currently work as a uniformed patrol Sergeant at a suburban patrol base in Adelaide, South Australia.

Looking to the future, I have a strong passion and desire to work together toward building strong relations and friendship throughout all regions, sub-regions and branches across the Australian Section and at an International level.

My goals are:

- to foster and advance the IPA ideals of friendship and participation;
- to increase and open up communication with all IPA members;
- to reconnect and consult with members throughout all areas of IPA and;
- to promote a shared inclusive leadership within the National Executive, providing them with a voice as the governing body in decision making processes.

I intend to harness the wealth of knowledge and experience within regional executives and indeed all of our membership and promote new initiatives and advance IPA particularly through the recruitment and involvement of vibrant young members.

Having already met many IPA members from other Sections in my travels, I am eager to get to know many more IPA friends from around the world to extend and develop lifetime mates to enjoy an exchange of cultures, experiences and ideas.

Finally I wish everyone a happy Christmas and joyous new year and hope you all make the most of the festive season with your family, loved ones, friends and colleagues. Stay safe and I look forward to the challenges, participation and exciting times ahead that we can all share.

IPA Australia celebrates 50 year Anniversary

IPA Australia reached fifty years of affiliation this year and to celebrate this significant milestone, a special National AGM Weekend Cruise was held. Sixty-five members participated in the cruise departing from Sydney Harbour including International President Pierre-Martin Moulin, IPA Japan President Koji Nakamura and his lovely wife Toshiko, and New Zealand Section Vice President Ross Pinkham.

As usual the weekend commenced with a professional forum for the serving Police Officers hosted by New South Wales Police. Information sessions were held at the main Police Centre in Sydney covering the Police Operations Centre, Emergency Management Centre and Tactical Operations Centre. A visit was made to the Water Police Headquarters where a presentation was made by the Water Police and Air Wing. A tour of the Water Police Facility was conducted as well as a journey on the largest vessel in the fleet, Nemesis. Whilst on board the vessel, a live demonstration was conducted by the Water Police and Air Wing. The day which was organised by Sergeant Peter Robins was informative and beneficial to all attendees. Members disembarked from the Police vessel at Circular Quay and were then joined by the other members on board the luxury cruise ship Celebrity Solstice.

Cruising out of Sydney Harbour in the evening was a sight to behold with the spectacular Sydney Opera House and Sydney Harbour Bridge fully lit. Three nights of luxury were enjoyed by all onboard the five star liner. In addition to the onboard entertainment, a series of meetings were held including the Annual General Meeting. Honorary Life Member Val Doherty's forty plus years of dedicated continuous service to IPA was acknowledged by the International President when she was presented with a Certificate of Merit. The AGM concluded with the announcement of the results of the National Election. Check out the IPA Australia website for details of the new executive team who will lead the Section for the next three years.

The weekend was a great opportunity for all the guests from around Australia and abroad to renew existing friendships and create new ones. It was a fabulous event which was extended for some who continued on for an eight night Pacific Cruise. Special thanks to our travel agent – Evoke World Travel (who are also serving police officers and IPA members) and Ross Pinkham for the photographs.

IPA Kazakhstan:

Proud to be a full member of the international police community

The idea of creating a national section of the International Police Association in Kazakhstan was born five years ago – on 10 November 2009. That same day ten veterans of the Kazakh police held an internal constitutive meeting, where it was decided to create a national association. As required by the legislation of the Republic of Kazakhstan, we registered with the Ministry of Justice, confirming our status, and within a year we created eleven branches in different regions of the country.

Following IPA procedures, IPA Russia was appointed sponsor section and worked with Kazakhstan for two years, leading to the founding meeting of IPA Kazakhstan in July 2012, which was attended by the former International President Michael Odysseos, the International Secretary General Georgios Katsaropoulos and the President of IPA Russia, Aleksey Gankin. Shortly after the founding meeting, IPA Kazakhstan was awarded the status of Section in Foundation.

Considerable organisational and practical work has been achieved since this time; a constructive and fruitful cooperation was established with our colleagues, members of the police association and other public law enforcement associations in Russia, Ukraine, Belarus and further countries of the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS). The board and members of Section IPA Kazakhstan regularly attend events organised by the International Police Association in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Ekaterinburg, Izhevsk, Kirov, Pyatigorsk, Omsk, Minsk and other cities of the CIS.

One major event took place in the summer of 2012: the first international motor rally in Kazakhstan was launched amid celebrations in the capital Astana in the square near the monument to the defenders of the fatherland. The motor rally was dedicated to the memory of police captain Gaziz Baiatsov, who was posthumously awarded the highest title of the Republic of Kazakhstan 'Hero of Kazakhstan', as well as to the memory of other law enforcement officers who lost their lives in the line of duty.

The participants of the motor rally - veterans of internal affair bodies, members of the International Police Association from Russia, Belarus, Kyrgyzstan, Kazakhstan and representatives from the Ministry of Internal Affairs as well as the Department for the Interior Regions - drove along the route 'Astana – Karaganda – Balhash – Shu – Taraz – Bishkek – Almaty – Astana'.

The motor rally was highly appreciated by the public authorities, the public as well as the International Police Association, and a group of professional film-makers produced a documentary about the event. In addition, and a part of the joint event for the motor rally, a 'Book of Memory', which includes information about the police officers killed since 1991, was released.

On our initiative, to commemorate the heroic death of police captain Gaziz Baiatsov, motor rallies are now being held each year on 12 November in Astana and other cities of Kazakhstan, combined with laying of flowers at the obelisk of dead police officers.

Our work of educating the youth and improving the image of the Kazakh police has been recognized: in 2013, the President of IPA Kazakhstan, Marat Nurgaliev, was elected as a member of the Public Council in the Ministry of Internal Affairs of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

One of the most important events for members of IPA Kazakhstan has been the opening of a new office and museum on 23 June 2013, the 'Day of the Kazakhstan police'. This event was attended by members of the Moscow branch as well as further invited guests.

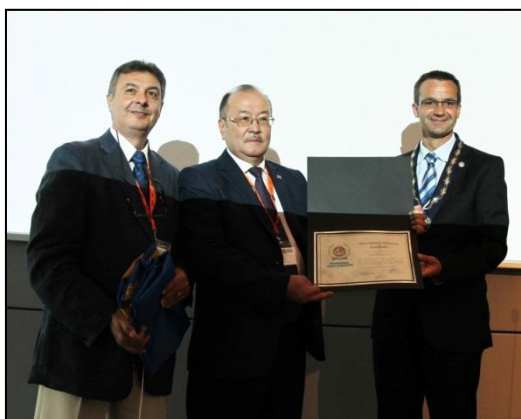

A high degree of attention is paid to sports activities in our section, and a team of the law enforcement bodies of Kazakhstan took part in the 15th World Police and Fire Games which was held in the city of Belfast in Northern Ireland in August 2013. Six Kazakhstan athletes won 15 medals: 5 gold, 5 silver and 5 bronze.

Following the good work achieved over the years, the delegates of the 39th IEC Conference in Potsdam voted unanimously for the affiliation of IPA Kazakhstan, therewith granting the section the status of a full member of the International Police Association. The International President Pierre-Martin Moulin presented IPA Kazakhstan with the affiliation certificate.

A press conference was organised in the National Press Club after our return to Kazakhstan during which we informed the people of Kazakhstan about this event. It is a great achievement for IPA Kazakhstan which will without doubt have a significant impact on the revitalization of our work and open new perspectives and opportunities for the police community of Kazakhstan.

The future plans of Section IPA Kazakhstan involve holding joint events with the Ministry of Internal Affairs regarding patriotic education of young police officers and improving the image of police officers, as well as the development and strengthening of international cooperation, strengthening the credibility of our organisation and our country.

IPA Cyprus organises Seminar on Human Trafficking

A seminar on Human Trafficking was held in Paphos on 22.10.14 and was attended by 60 people, mainly police officers specialising in this type of serious crime.

The opening of the seminar was attended by the Mayor of the area, the District Officer, an Assistant Chief of Police, who represented the Chief of Police, the Divisional Police Commander of Paphos and other Senior Governmental Officials. The opening speech was given by a Senior Government Official from the Ministry of Justice and Public Order, who represented the Minister.

The participants of the seminar were greeted by myself, the chairman of IPA Region Paphos, the Mayor and the Representative of the Chief of Police.

The main speakers were all police officers and Senior Governmental officials from the Ministries of Justice and Public Order, Interior & Labour, the office of the Attorney General and the office of the Ombudsman who analysed and developed the seriousness of this type of crime and answered many questions raised during the discussion.

I am pleased to say that the seminar was very successful and all participants were fully satisfied.

IPA Greece organises 1st IPA Women Police Conference

IPA Greece successfully organised the 1st IPA International Women Police Conference, on the island of Crete from 1-5 October 2014.

218 police officers from around the world attended, and during the sessions 13 scientific papers from university professors and scientists were analysed. Police officers exchanged views on the prevention and punishment of crime and investigated issues affecting work.

The delegations from Russia, Poland, Cyprus and Brazil also submitted material on issues concerning their countries' police. All participants came to the conclusion that in a modern police force, violence is the exception and not the rule. IPA members belong to a rare category of people united by friendship and who have the talent to bring new ideas and turn them into reality. Our aim is to highlight the purposes of IPA, on a national and international level.

During the Conference, proposals to organise the 2nd IPA Women Police Conference were submitted by IPA Russia and Poland.

Alongside the scientific discussions, participants were able to take part in events showcasing the culture, gastronomy and touristic side of Crete.

IEB representative Gal Sharon, the International Secretary General Georgios Katsaropoulos, the President of the Greek Section Ioannis Karapatakis, delegates of local regions of Greece and representatives of the sections involved paid their respects by depositing a wreath at the monument of Fallen Police Officers at the Police Headquarters in Heraklion.

Retired brigadier Konstantina Basouko, one of the first women in the Greek police force, having started 43 years ago in the Heraklion Security department, was honoured during the conference.

On behalf of the administration board of the Greek Section, we express once again our thanks to the Chief of the Police, the International President and IEB members, the delegations and all volunteers from the local regions for their collective effort and the big Greek smile we shared during the days of the conference. Such events build strong friendships and create memories for life!

The Resolution of the Conference

On 2 October 2014, the delegations of women police officers reached unanimously a resolution stating their intention to help ensure peace, tranquility and better living conditions for people all over the world and their wish to contribute to the eradication of violence, taking full advantage of the female gender and calling all members of society to work towards this direction.

In addition, the resolution includes the intention for the International Police Association to organise similar conferences on a biennial basis.

Furthermore, all participants invited the international community to eliminate conflicts, racial and religious discrimination, crime and general conditions that cause insecurity and inequality.

IPA South Africa: Garden Route Region organises Golf Day

The IPA Garden Route Region held their Annual Golf Day at the Glenwood Golf Course in George on 5 November 2014.

The event was well attended by IPA members and police officials of the Southern Cape and everyone had a well-deserved break from their daily routine. A wonderful spirit prevailed during the “competition” and not too many golf balls had gone missing. No players were injured although some arrived at the golf course in neck braces and arm slings (we discussed the situation and then appointed this brigade as advisors!).

The Golf Day was organized by Mondray van Eck and Andre Britz; we would like to thank and congratulate them on this very successful event!

Getting to know René Kauffmann of IBZ Gimborn

I started my new position as Director of IBZ Gimborn on 1 October 2014, following the departure of Gabriele Bischoff. I am 34 years old, a business lawyer and a local of the Oberberg region and therefore closely connected to the area and its people. After completing my A-levels and an apprenticeship in a bank, I studied German and European business law at the University of Siegen. Before starting my position at IBZ Gimborn, I worked in the area of tax and business consultancy.

I live with my wife and son about 30 km away from Gimborn castle in the community of Reichshof and in my spare time, I am actively involved in local politics and various clubs. This year, I was successful once again in winning a seat on the local council. Whenever time allows, I like to go hunting with my dog, spend time outdoors and travel with my family.

I am very much looking forward to the tasks ahead at IBZ Gimborn, although I am facing a multitude of challenges. The conditions for further education facilities offering political education for adults are becoming more and more difficult; the restrictive policies when granting educational holidays as well as the reduction of police personnel being sent for Gimborn courses from work have a significant negative impact on participation levels at Gimborn. Whilst I do not think that these challenges will become easier over the coming years, I am nevertheless convinced that we will be able to overcome these difficulties in solidarity with the IPA. In the coming months, my aim is therefore to concentrate on highlighting the identity of IBZ Gimborn as an educational facility of the IPA and to further strengthen the emotional ties of IPA friends with Gimborn.

In keeping with the motto of 'IBZ and IPA – a positive relationship!', I would like to start a first initiative in 2015: As part of an 'IPA Friendship Campaign', IBZ Gimborn would like to plan and organise attractive weekend events for IPA branches, at fair prices. The aim of this initiative is to give the opportunity to as many IPA friends as possible to (re-)discover the 'Gimborn spirit'

The IBZ-team is looking forward to welcoming many old and new friends at Gimborn!

René Kauffmann, director IBZ Gimborn

31st Annual Congress of IPA Cyprus

The 31st Annual Congress of Section Cyprus was hosted this year by the IPA region of Nicosia, between 06-09.11.14.

The Congress was attended by delegations from Poland, Greece and Israel. In addition, the National Executive Council of Section Cyprus and the members of the National Council took part.

Besides the works of the Congress, the programme included guided sightseeing tours, visits to archeological places and our distinguished guests got a taste of the culture of Cyprus as well as the friendliness and hospitality of the Cypriot people. They were also given the opportunity to see the beautiful sights of our capital.

The attendees of the Congress were briefed about IPA's work and other IPA activities which were carried out by the Section and the IPA regions during the year under review. The heads of the foreign delegations addressed the congress delegates and expressed their thanks for the invitation.

The delegates of the congress were briefed by the President of the Cyprus Section about the IPA work done during the year and then approved the decisions taken by the National Executive Council. They also discussed future plans and projects and the decisions taken were approved. Several revisions of the National Statutes and Rules were also approved.

On Saturday night, 08.11.14, a gala dinner was organised which was attended by more than 200 people, including members of the Government, the local authorities, the Police authorities, the Congress attendees including the foreign delegations, prominent people, IPA members from the regions and others. In addition there was a group of foreign police officers serving with the United Nations in Cyprus.

Both the Congress and the Celebrations were fruitful and successful. I take this opportunity to thank the Chairman of the Nicosia Region Demetris Demetriou and his National Board for everything they did to make the 31st Annual Congress a success.

Concluding I assure all National Sections that we will continue offering our services to the IPA and the Members worldwide.

ON THE TABLE OF THE IEB

IEB Visit to Macau and Hong Kong

Section Macau had invited the IEB for a promotional and professional visit as well as to take part in the anniversary dinner to celebrate 15 years since Macau was returned to China. As the IEB liaison member for Macau, I was honoured to attend and represent the international board of the IPA.

An official meeting was organised with the deputy Commissioner, Mr. Lai Kam Kun and members of his staff, during which I was able to speak about the scope of our organisation. His head of international relations was particularly interested in our International World Seminar for Young Police Officers (YPOS), and I was able to explain in detail past seminars as well as provide him with information regarding the 3rd YPOS which IPA Poland is organising next year.

The Deputy Commissioner expressed his support for Section Macau and appreciated their work. He was prepared to support any initiative from IPA Macau to organise a Young Police Officers Seminar in the future.

Section Macau also arranged an informal meeting with the police of the city of Zhuhai in mainland China. This meeting lasted 45 minutes, and I was not surprised that police work in this part of China is the same as in other parts of the world. The main differences can be found in the processes and the structure of the organisation. I was able to talk about our Association and the aims of the IPA.

Approximately 960 people took part in the annual celebration dinner on 1 November 2014. An informal meeting took place with representatives from Mali, Indonesia and Laos. We discussed the IPA, including its foundations and its aims.

A meeting with the NEC of Macau revealed that they are involved in many supporting projects and fundraising activities. In addition, the section will look into the possibility of hosting the 5th IPA World Seminar for Young Police Officers in 2019.

A big thank you and compliments to section Macau for their superb work and organisation of this event!

From Macau, my return trip home went via Hong Kong. Section Hong Kong supported my wish to visit to the city centre where students were protesting by blocking the main city centre roads and public transport.

Without going into detail, I can say that I was impressed by the behaviour of the Hong Kong Police in their efforts of maintaining order and safeguarding the public. Their behaviour was exemplary in restraining from responding to certain confrontations.

Before my departure I had the opportunity to meet the staff of the Hong Kong Police College. During a tour of the campus I was impressed with the facilities and professional aspects of the training of the young cadets.

LAST WORD

Lots of ideas came to my mind when thinking about the Last Word for this month; November 2014 has been memorable for me for various reasons, and December 2014 of course marks the centenary of Arthur Troop's birthday.

The most memorable date for me without doubt: 9 November. 25 years since the fall of the Berlin Wall and the entire Iron Curtain. 25 years ago I was at university right in the middle of Germany, not far from the fence that had separated East and West for all of my life. I had grown up with the firm belief that I would not see whoever and whatever was on the other side of the fence, and I felt closer to teenagers from France, England or Holland than to any East Germans – there was simply no opportunity to meet any of them, it was not encouraged.

Not long after the wall came down, a few friends and I crossed the inner-German border. Yes, we had a look at some of the famous sights we had only heard of before, but this is not what was memorable. Memorable and unforgettable were the people: Within minutes, a group of teenagers came up to us, started a conversation, hugged us and invited us to come to a disco with them. Within minutes, it became crystal-clear to me that we had so much in common with these young people who only weeks ago had been our ideological opponents. 25 years ago, my outlook on life changed in an instant: never simply accept the status quo, always have the courage to think differently and dare to hope that you can make a difference.

The motto of the celebrations commemorating 25 years of the Berlin Wall was 'Mut zur Freiheit' – 'the courage to seek Freedom', reminding everyone of those courageous people in East Germany who dared to think differently and who achieved their aim in a peaceful way.

Arthur Troop, in my eyes, was a person with a similar outlook on life. He was driven by the desire to renew friendships from before the Second World War. He had 'the courage to seek Friendship', culminating in the foundation of the IPA.

I am grateful to Arthur for his courage and for his initiative. Without people like him, I would not be able today to enjoy all the friendships I have made through the IPA – I would not be able to look at the photo of Michaela from IPA Slovakia and myself, taken during the recent IEC Conference in Germany, right at the spot where the Wall divided East and West.

Thank you Arthur!

Elke
